Important information for passengers travelling from Hong Kong to the Chinese Mainland from 23 February

Dear Valued Travel Partner,

In light of the increasing number of Omicron cases emerging in Hong Kong and as a precautionary measure to reduce the risk of exposure for our passengers, employees and the cities to which we fly, we are introducing a requirement for all passengers aged 3 years and older travelling from Hong Kong to the Chinese Mainland to present a negative COVID-19 PCR test result from a test taken within 48 hours of departure. This will be effective from 23 February 2022.

A list of laboratories and health care institutions conducting COVID-19 testing in Hong Kong can be found on the Hong Kong SAR Government's website. Alternatively, passengers can book and pay for a test at a Government Community Testing Centre. There is also a testing facility at the Hong Kong International Airport. Please note that bookings are essential at most testing centres. Passengers are reminded to take their travel documents with them and let the testing centre know a report is needed for airline travel.

Special, short term documentation arrangements will be in place for passengers travelling to Chengdu, Chongqing and Shanghai. Further details can found in the Chinese Mainland travel restrictions section of our COVID-19 Information centre.
